

EAAE Newsletter

1:1- one:to:one

architecture. education. research

The European Association for Architectural Education (EAAE) gathers most of the schools of architecture in Europe. With 150 active member schools between the Canary Islands and the Urals, representing more than 5,000 teachers and over 120,000 students from the undergraduate to the PhD level, the Association provides a vibrant network promoting architectural education and research throughout Europe.

1:1 - one:to:one is a new publication and venture for the Association which has for a long time harboured a wish to publish a peer reviewed magazine or a series of books that deal with various current themes in depth.

1:1 - one:to:one is to be published annually. Containing interviews, scientifically peer-reviewed papers, reports and opinion pieces, each volume will have a particular character within the framework of the series, to be distributed to schools of architecture and their libraries around the world.

1:1 - one:to:one is scheduled to appear for the first time in 2012. It will feature discussion, investigation into architecture and contemporary culture and leading architects, theoreticians and historians from around the world. Focusing primarily on education and research, it will also be the voice of young and upcoming architects (many of whom are also teachers) and a platform for discussion about the future of architecture.

Call for papers, Volume 1: CHANGE?

The guiding theme of Volume 1 will be 'change?'. In a world of ever more distraction and news, change has become an omni-present buzzword: climate-change, regime-change, change we can believe in, change we can hope for... Whether it is the environment, our resources or our economic system, we are constantly told that we have to change our ways in order to prepare for changes that are coming. Change has become the categorical imperative of our time. In Volume 1 of 1:1 - one:to:one we ask what this means for architecture and for architectural education. What are the most important changes we should make, which are the values we should insist on preserving? Where should we react to trends and forces outside our control, how can architecture itself contribute to shape our changing society?

Under the motto of 'change?' we invite contributions that discuss the complex challenges that we currently face on a global scale. What is their impact on architecture, architectural education and architectural research? What is their impact on the future of our profession? How can we prepare for it?

Contributions will be selected through a peer-review process. Researchers, teachers and practicing architects interested in contributing to the first issue of 1:1 - one:to:one should submit their articles by 2 April 2012.

Key Dates and Deadlines

2 January 2011: Call for papers

2 April 2012: Deadline for submission (full paper, 3000-5000 words) Guidelines for Authors

23 April 2012: Peer review finishes

23 April 2012: Notification of paper acceptance. Peer reviewed papers are returned to authors for revisions

21 May 2012: Revised papers are returned from authors

1 September 2012: Targeted publishing date

Editorial Board

Anne Elisabeth Toft (editor-in-chief), Per Olaf Fjeld, Urs Hirschberg, Johannes Käferstein, Ebbe Harder (organizer, funding, business strategy)

07-10 June, 2012

EAAE/ARCC 2012
Cities in transformation
Research & Design
*Ideas, Methods,
Techniques, Tools,
Examples*
More information
Milano, Italy

31 May 3 June, 2012

European Architectural History Network
Second International Meeting
More information
Brussels, Belgium

4-5 Feb, 2012

EAAE
Council Meeting
Paris, France